DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Jarrell House is located on the southwest side of Maryland Route 405 in the town of Price, approximately 100 yards east of the railroad tracks.

This small frame house is believed to be one of the oldest buildings in Price, known in the latter half of the 19th century as Price's Station. It is two stories high, 3 bays wide and one room deep, with a 1 1/2 story frame wing that covers most of the rear facade.

The front facade, facing the main street of Price, is three bays wide, with an entrance door in the left bay and two 6/6 windows to the right on the first floor, and three 6/6 windows on the second floor. A one story open porch with round columns runs across the first story on this facade. The roof is asphalt shingle above a simple box cornice. The entire house is covered with asbestos shingle siding.

On the east gable, a single 6/6 window to the right on the second floor is the only opening. The boxed cornice returns at the corners and is carried up the gable eaves.

7.1 DESCRIPTION

A modern stove chimney has been constructed on the west gable. There are single 6/6 windows to the right of the chimney on the first and second floors.

The rear wing is set flush with the northwest gable of the main house, and has been enlarged by the addition of a shed lean-to along the southeast facade, giving it a catslide or saltbox profile. There are two 6/6 windows on the first floor of the northwest facade, and two 6/6 shed dormers on the second floor. A door is centered on the southwest gable wall of the wing, with two modern windows to the left and one early four-light window to the right. A 6/6 window is centered in the upper gable. The eaves are boxed in but do not return at the corners. On the southeast facade of the wing, there is a door near the center with two modern windows to the left and a single four-light window at the extreme right. A 6/6 shed dormer is offset to the south on the second floor.

The interior was not accessible.
